College Notes.

As our first number paid its way and the number of subscribers is still on the increase, we feel justified in assuming that the Hertford College Magazine is now a permanent institution whose introduction is generally approved. We are, therefore, able to take a step which we hesitated to take last Term, and to arrange for long-term subscriptions on the following scale:

For 1 year ... 2/3 post free.
For 3 years ... 6/-
For 6 years ... 10/-

Single numbers, 1/- each (1/- post free).

Anyone who will subscribe for a longer period than one year is obviously saving himself (and us) a great deal of trouble, and those who are good at mathematics will be able to see that in the above price-list special inducements are held out to long-term subscribers. Meanwhile, we call attention to the fact that many subscriptions will have fallen due before the appearance of our May number, in which we hope to publish a full list of subscribers.

We are pleased to be able to include in this number a photograph of the Principal, who is now the senior Head of a House in Oxford. The exact date of the Principal’s birthday is always a mystery, but it is an open secret that he is now in the neighbourhood of four score years. Age, however, seems to affect him no more than the slight accident with which he met this summer in Norway, and he is, if anything, fitter than ever this Term.

On Tuesday, June 21st, the Principal entertained to lunch in Hertford a party of over two hundred, consisting of the Court and many of the Livery of the Drapers’ Company, and a number of representatives of the College and University. The lunch, which celebrated the opening of the Electrical Laboratory presented by the Drapers to the University, was preceded by the conferring of the Degree of D.C.L. on H. R. Fletcher, M.A., New College, Master of the Company, and was followed by an organ recital in Chapel and the opening ceremonies at the Laboratory itself. The lunch was on all sides voted a huge success, and the guests left the College eulogising the hospitality of the Principal and the skill of his lieutenant the Chef.

To those who like to look on Oxford and Cambridge as national institutions, nothing of recent years has seemed more appropriate or more hopeful than the gifts of this ancient City Company to the ancient Universities, and we are glad to feel that our own College, through the Principal, is connected with the work more closely, perhaps, than any other.

We may congratulate ourselves on starting this Term with what we believe to be a record number of Freshmen, and with a total number of undergraduates which at any rate has not been equalled for a great many years. On Sunday evenings Hall is becoming almost congested. As far as we can judge, too, the Freshmen are not only numerous, but zealous. Athletically they are an extremely useful lot, and if one may judge from the prestigious number who are reading Hon. Mods. (quite the despair of tutors, we believe), their prowess is not confined to one type of usefulness. They also possess the distinction of having all passed Smalls, and we venture to hope that the College will continue to insist on the possession of this distinction by all new-comers.

Apart from the increase in our numbers we have few changes to record. Mr. Burroughs, however, has been compelled by ill-health to take two Terms off and travel abroad, and we offer him our very best wishes for a speedy recovery. When we reflect that while we are suffering from a more than usually abominable Oxford autumn, he is basking in the sunshine of Bosnia and Montenegro, we feel no doubt that he will return in the summer wholly fit to take up again his very busy life in Oxford.

In Mr. Burroughs’ place we have been glad to welcome Mr. L. W. Hunter, formerly Scholar of Winchester and New College, who could, if he liked, write after his name a list of University distinctions which would be almost vulgar. We heartily congratulate him on his recent election to a Fellowship at Magdalen, and hope that residence in that suburban district will not wholly cut him off from Hertford.

But a permanent change is imminent. It has at last been definitely decided to have a new College Barge, and after a good deal of discussion the plans have been determined on. Unlike its predecessor, it is to be a genuine Barge, i.e. the superstructure will be sunk into a barge, and not built on a pontoon; but the internal comforts and, as far as possible, the internal arrangements of the old Barge will be retained. We hope to publish a photograph of the new vessel in our next number.

The new Barge is to be ready by Eights’ Week, and it is sincerely to be hoped that no unforeseen event will hinder its completion—partly because next Eights’ Week is supposed to be going to be a giddy one; still more because the old Barge is really incapable of further service and, in our belief, could only participate in another Eights’ Week as a submarine. We should like to take this opportunity of thanking those past members of the College who have contributed towards the cost of the new Barge.

Since the last number of the Magazine appeared, Hertford has not been favoured with any new buildings, and that is scarcely odd, because—there’s no more room to build. But a sober and exhaustive chronicle like this would be incomplete without some reference to the extraordinarily weird erection that made its appearance last Term just inside the New Buildings door. Its nominal purpose was to protect the Porter from draughts, but a draughtier-looking structure cannot well be conceived. For the sake both of the Porter’s comfort and our aesthetic sensibility, we look forward to the day, not, we hope, very distant, when the New Buildings porch and its surroundings will be able to be made more worthy of the College.

QUERY: Why could not the letter-box in the New Buildings be put into working order? It is extraordinarily inconvenient for the inhabitants of the New Buildings to have to journey across to the Old whenever they want to post a letter, especially if it is late at night.

In Schools last summer Hertford was very fairly successful, but the greatest triumph of all was in the Civil Service Examination, in which six of the successful candidates hailed from Hertford. It is satisfactory to think that no College had a better record than ours, and only two others—Balliol and Brasenose—one as good. O. G. R. Williams, B.A., late Aubrey Moore student, is especially to be congratulated on his attaining the excellent place of ninth.

Hertford has been of late extremely well represented in the Varsity Athletic Clubs. Last Term M. G. Salter played cricket regularly, though hardly as successfully as in 1909. This Term H. G. Hawkins played in the Freshmen’s hockey match, as also did I. P. F. Campbell. Campbell also played in the Freshmen’s ‘Soccer’ match, and the impression he made, combined with his school reputation, was so excellent that he has played in practically all the Varsity matches this Term, and is almost certain of his ‘Blue.’ J. Grundy has also played ‘Soccer’ for the Varsity. He and R. C. H. Kingdon were chosen to play in the Seniors’ match, and the latter was fortunate enough to score. Turning to Rugger, N. G. Fitzpatrick played in the Freshmen’s match, and E. H. H. Woodward in the Seniors’ and Trial matches, while G. T. Gravell played several times for the Varsity during the earlier part of the season. For the first time, too, for some years we have now a representative in the Varsity Lacrosse team, J. F. Sidebotham, whose achievements have met with quite favourable criticism from such high authorities as the Varsity and Sportsman. In matters aquatic we have not been so successful. At one time we had three representatives in the Trial Eights—R. Bevir, C. J. S. Wright, and C. W. Davie—but they did not survive long, and were eventually eliminated. It is to be hoped that the list of Hertford Rowing ‘Blues’ in the Barge, the last entry in which relates to the year 1899 or thereabouts, has not permanently come to an end, and that the advent of the new Barge will bring new Varsity oarsmen with it. We hope great things of this year’s Freshmen.

The Hockey and both Football Clubs are doing quite well this season, and would probably do still better were it not for the very large number of fixtures arranged, which has necessitated so much mutual borrowing of players as to weaken materially each team in turn. Both the Rugger and Hockey teams started off brilliantly with a goodly number of wins, but have not been quite so fortunate recently. The ‘Soccer’ Club successfully negotiated one round of the ‘Cupper’—in itself an improvement on the two previous years—defeating Wadham, after an intensely interesting and even match by one goal, scored in the last quarter of an hour. They came to grief, however, at the hands of Magdalen, only scoring once to Magdalen’s five times. It was unfortunate that this match, which had been postponed through frost, had to be played in a combination of snow, hail, sleet, ice, rain, and mud, and general unpleasantness. This year’s ‘Soccer’ Club is at least unique in one respect: never before has any Hertford Club had as many as thirty-two fixtures to fulfill in forty-eight days!

The Hertford Detachment of the Officers’ Training Corps is going as strong as, if not stronger than, ever. H. G. Evans-Jones, who has done so much to raise it to its present state of flourishing efficiency, will be going down at the end of this Term, but he has a most able successor—a man alike of military form and martial bearing—in J. H. Orvig.

It is interesting to note what Schools have in recent years fed the College most abundantly. We have, therefore, collected statistics for the last fourteen years, and have divided

The Freshmen's Wine was held on Friday, November 4th, but rather suffered in consequence of the rival attractions of H.M.S. Pinafore and Trial by Jury at the Theatre.

The family of tortoises, who lived such a blissful life in the Old Quad last Term, seems to have felt the Long Vac. excessively long and lonesome, and at some period during those tedious four months to have vacated its delectable domicile 'for fresh woods and pastures new.' Of course we may be wrong, for the tortoise is a beast with fantastic habits, and future generations of Hertford men may at some distant date see the well-known form of 'Alphonso' walking from a long sleep outside the Old Library—but we fear the worst, and mourn the loss of old friends. The only pet we have now is an elderly cat that one sees occasionally slumbering undisturbed on slopes of almost impossible steepness.

Mr. Allchin is again President of the Oxford University Musical Club, and is surpassing himself in the excellence of the programmes for which he is responsible.

R. Bevir spoke second on the paper at the Visitors' Debate at the Union on Saturday, November 26th. He was only just beaten in the election for the Presidency last Term, and we wish him better luck next time.

E. W. Sheppard represented the O.U. War Game Club in its match against the Bristol Tactical Game Society, on Saturday, November 26th.

M. Husnius is the Secretary of the Oxford University German Literary Society, while H. M. Blackett has a claim to fame on the ground that he is on the Committee of the Casuals' Hockey Club.

A College Meeting was held in Hall on Sunday morning, November 27th, Mr. Riddell in the chair, to discuss 'the relation of the College to the University Settlements in London.'

Mr. Whatley dealt forcibly with the more general aspects of the question; dissipating many popular misunderstandings of the purpose and nature of Settlements. He urged that such places as the Oxford House, Tennyson Hall, the Oxford Medical Mission in Bermondsey, and Mansfield House, exist to provide us with an opportunity for that personal intercourse, which he regarded as an integral part of an Oxford education, with those whom we call the 'social problem.' It was as unfair to ourselves and to the College, as to such institutions themselves, that it should entirely depend upon the whims and fluctuating enthusiasms of individuals, whether we actually realize any relationship to the Settlements at all. In a matter of such national importance, he advocated corporate action, and claimed that the College should throw its whole weight into a movement for promoting a first-hand acquaintance with the problems of poverty, which clamour for solution. Such action should take the form of Vacation visits to East and South-East London, and possibly the establishment of a College camp in September among the hop-pickers in Kent.

The desirability of the former proposal was most attractively dealt with by J. W. Rowlands, who described his own experiences in the camps and clubs of the Oxford Medical Mission with such obvious enjoyment that his invitation to others to share them in the Christmas Vacation seemed irresistible.

D. L. Russell dealt with the second suggestion. He had spent ten days on a hop farm in September, and could vouch for the fact that such an experience, the nature and novelty of which he depicted, was as merry as it was instructive. The hop gardens afforded a unique opportunity of learning the mind, understanding the conditions, and sharing for the time being the life and status of some of the least submerged of the submerged youth. He was in favor of the adoption of a hop farm as a College institution.

On the motion of R. Hevir, a College Committee was appointed by the meeting, with the double object of facilitating vacation visits, and of presenting the College with a definite scheme in connection with the hopping project.

Such a practical outcome of the meeting encourages us to believe that Mr. Whatley has, as far as this College is concerned, once and for all rescued the Settlements from their precarious hole-and-corner existence, and we shall hope to hear more of the work of this Committee.

Sheppard on taking commissions in the Territorial Army. The numbers now stand at 1 officer, 6 N.C.O.'s, and 33 men.

In H. G. Evans-Jones the detachment provides the Colour-Sergeant for 'O' Company. The Cavalry is represented in the College by 1 N.C.O. and 3 men.

Certificates and Insignia: Six A certificates have been secured by members of the detachment. Cadet J. Grady is also to be congratulated on winning the King's Cup for the best score in the battalion at class firing during the past year. We also take this opportunity of congratulating Colour-Sergeant Evans-Jones on being awarded the Williams Prize for all-round efficiency.

Strength. —The detachment still continues to rise in numbers, notwithstanding many losses since last Term. Six have resigned on going down, and Cadets R. L. Hardy and E. W. Sheppard on taking commissions in the Territorial Army.

- H. G. Evan-Jones is to be congratulated on winning the King's Cup for the best score in the battalion at class firing during the past year.
- We also take this opportunity of congratulating Colour-Sergeant Evan-Jones on being awarded the Williams' Prize for all-round efficiency.

Certificates and Distinctions. —Six 'A' certificates have been secured by members of the detachment. Cadet I. Grundy is also to be congratulated on winning the King's Cup for the best score in the battalion at class firing during the past year.
CAMP AND FIELD DAYS.—Every member of the detachment except two attended camp, the majority for the full period of fifteen days. The excellent discipline and smartness displayed won the detachment praise from high quarters, and it is hoped that this keenness will be maintained, both in appearance and discipline on parade. Field Days during Term have been attended as well as can be expected, and on some occasions the detachment has turned out the largest number from any college. The more who take these opportunities for practical work the better, but as camp is the most important event of the year, and provides the best training, it is hoped that every member will endeavour to attend for the full time next summer, and will arrange to make this possible.

COMPETITIONS.—The detachment entered for the first time last summer for the Bourne Cup, and as a result of assiduous drilling gained the second place, six marks behind Magdalen. The standard of drilling reached was exceptionally high, and for a first attempt the result may be regarded as highly satisfactory. During camp the Morrell Cup was competed for, and we were defeated in our heat after an interesting duel. For the Victoria Cup this Term we were unfortunate in not being able to turn out a full team, many of our best shots being otherwise engaged. Notwithstanding, the team entered gained nine out of ten marks for discipline, and marched to Bicester quicker by ten minutes than any other competing team. In the final order we were placed eighth out of fifteen competitors.

SMOKING CONCERTS.—From the social side the detachment has also been a success, and has held two popular smoking concerts.

The Smoking Concert was held in Hall on Tuesday, November 29th. The programme was excellent, but the Hall was by no means as full as one could have wished. If the College decides on having a Smoking Concert, it is surely incumbent on the College to turn up in as full force as possible; this year there were far too many absentees. It was, however, most gratifying to notice that the Principal, the Dean, and several members of the Senior Common Room were present. Both Mr. Lomas and Mr. Selwyn Driver were in their best form: amongst other things, the former sang 'In Cellar Cool,' 'by special request,' while the latter quite excelled himself in his caricature of grand opera, to say nothing of his military experiences. The piano was not exactly the best in Oxford, one of the bass notes giving out early in the programme, with discordant though amusing effects.

A programme is appended:

\[ \text{PART I.} \]
1. Overture ... 'Morning, Noon and Night' ...
2. Song ... Mr. J. Lomas.
3. Song ... Mr. Selwyn Driver.
4. Songs (a) 'Shepherd, see thy horse's foaming mane.' (b) Folk-song—'The Two Magicians.

the Dean being present, also members of the Senior Common Room and their guests, besides a large number of men both from Hertford and other colleges. Mr. Marchant, of Lincoln College, an honorary member of the Society, was again most kind in coming to assist the altos; and the tenors had the help of Mr. M. V. J. Nash, of Exeter College. Three or four of the madrigals and part-songs were repeated from last time's programme, and all were much appreciated, in particular, perhaps, Grieg's Landvannen. The concertina and flute solos were also very popular. As before, most of the part-songs were sung unaccompanied, Mr. Allchin being thus left free to conduct.

The full programme was as follows:

1. Two Madrigals
   - "Akward, lovely season"-Lahm (1530-1596)
   - "Four gave me Edin flowers"-Wolsey (1566-77)
2. Song

The Musical Society gave its third open concert in Hall on Thursday, November 24th. The meeting marked a new step forward in the history of the Society in that the invitation was extended to the whole College. Quite a good number turned up, including a large contingent from the S.C.R., and the concert was in every way highly successful. For this result great thanks are due to the College and to Mr. E. C. Allchin, whose unflagging energy has done so much for these concerts, which will, we hope, form a permanent item in the terminal fixture-list. The programme covered a large stretch—from Walton to Wolford Davies—some numbers of which had already been heard at the last concert. Mr. C. Williams, of Christ Church, very kindly sang the solos in the Cavalier Songs. Mr. E. C. Marchant, of Lincoln, was again good enough to help, and Mr. L. W. Hunter undertaking entire management of the alto part. Mr. Hunter also helped the bases and the trebles, who received additional assistance from Mr. M. V. J. Nash, of Exeter. We also tender our thanks to Mr. H. G. Newman, of Keble, for coming and playing three violin solos, and to E. A. Selke for his help at the piano. A word should be said in recognition of the work done by the boys in much strenuous practising, in addition to all their Chapel Choir work. Altogether, the Musical Society has reason to be pleased with its first year of work, and encouraged to go on with increased ambition and attempt greater things in the future.

The curtailment of Eights’ Week to four days’ racing, and the postponement of the racing for three days, affected a good many crews one way or the other—Herford, perhaps, less than most—but they were deprived of a chance of getting their own back, which they might have done had there been six days. As eleven back strain kept J. N. Smith, who was stroking, out of the boat for two or three days about a week before the races. Wright took his place, and remained there till the end, Smith going to Wright’s old place at ‘four,’ where he imparted more life to the bow oars. But the change, though necessary under the circumstances, somewhat upset the boat.

The first day’s racing was, to say the least of it, disappointing. They fell unaccountably to pieces at the Red Post, and were hopelessly outclassed and bumped by Magdalen II along the Barges. On the three other days they rowed over, going well up on Magdalen II on the Wednesday.

On the whole, the result did not fulfil the promise of the beginning of Term. Mr. V. Hope, of St. John’s, very kindly undertook the coaching for the last fortnight, and there was much improvement while the Eight was in his hands. The College should be very grateful to him.

Of our captain, Salter, it is needless to say anything, as he is well known by his achievements as a member of the Gloucestershire and Varsity elevens. Our secretary, Rowlands, never recovered from a series of failures early in the Term. Apart from Salter, Gravell stands out as by far the best all-round man on the side: as a batsman we have probably not seen the best of him, but as a bowler he was invaluable to a side so weak in bowling as ours; and, though for some time he was prevented by a strain from bowling fast, he was very useful as a slow bowler. Dore had a much more successful season as regards run-getting, but as a bowler he was invaluable to a side so weak in bowling as ours; and, though for some time he was prevented by a strain from bowling fast, he was very useful as a slow bowler. Rhydderch will probably make many more runs next season. He played in good style, but was distinctly unlucky. Law shared with Gravell the brunt of the bowling, and had had luck in not taking more wickets, as he kept a good length, and used his head. Joyce was disappointing as a bat: he needs a greater variety of strokes, but is well worth his place for his fielding alone. Evan-Jones kept wicket for the third year in succession: he will, unfortunately, be down next season, but we are lucky in having a Freshman who will probably prove a capable substitute for him. Joyce could hardly ever turn out owing to Schools, and consequently did not get enough practice to reproduce his last year's form.

Our prospects for next year seem much brighter, if we may rely on school reputations.

One thing very much needed is keenness and co-operation among those who are not regular members of the College Eleven, in order that it may be possible to run a Second Eleven with a captain of its own. If such a scheme is started, it is to be hoped that it will be well supported, as in course of time it could not fail to raise appreciably the standard of Hertford College cricket.

HERTFORD COLLEGE LAWN TENNIS CLUB.

Season 1910.

Captain—G. T. Gardatt.
Hon. Secretary—F. C. Light.

Also played.—C. J. Forder, S. G. Briggs, R. H. H. Woodward, &c.

On the whole, the College may be said to have enjoyed a very successful season as far as winning matches is concerned, but it must be admitted that this success was due rather to the weakness of its opponents than to the excellence of our own team.

The first pair was at times brilliant, but always erratic, and a peculiar fondness for losing to their opponents' third pair was distressingly evident during the earlier part of the season.

The second pair was of steamer material. A certain desperate and sinister seriousness, coupled with consistent lobbing, almost invariably enabled them to out-patience their opponents in long-drawn-out sets. But when the worst has been said, these Fabian tactics were very successful, and it was only the Captain's proper pride and the Secretary's improper use of his position that prevented their recognition as first pair.

To the third pair's achievements it is hardly necessary (or prudent) to allude. It can hardly be said to have enjoyed a corporate existence at all, so varying were its many members; and this was in itself, of course, a serious obstacle to consistent playing. It is greatly to be hoped that next season a far livelier and, at any rate, a more intelligent interest in the game may be shown by the College in general, and especially by the Freshmen, to whom we must look, it seems, for material to help reconstitute the six. We can, at least, assure our new players that, as a moral exercise, play on the Hertford courts is not to be despised.

The matches won were against Corpus, Jesus, Pembroke, Brasenose, Queen's, Magdalen, St. Edmund Hall, and Guy's Hospital "A."

We lost to Lincoln, Westminster, and Christ Church.
Of our captain, Salter, it is needless to say anything, as he is well known by his achievements as a member of the Gloucestershire and Varsity elevens. Our secretary, Rowlands, never recovered from a series of failures early in the Term. Dave had a much more successful season as regards run-getting, and could usually be relied on to keep his end up. The Thornhills were of great assistance to the side in batting. It hardly ever happened that both failed to make runs, although it was equally rare for both to come off on the same day. R. W. Thornhill was, in addition to his batting, a useful change bowler. Rhydderch will probably make many more runs next season. He played in good style, but was distinctly unlucky. Law shared with Gravell the brunt of the bowling, and had bad luck in not taking more wickets, as he kept a good length, and used his head. Joyce was disappointing as a bat: he needs a greater variety of strokes, but is well worth his place for his fielding alone. * Caps.

The season started well with five victories out of the first seven matches, but recently the team has been greatly handicapped, both by the intolerable weather (rendering training and matches alike impossible) and by the loss of Gravell’s services, owing to a severe injury to his knee, which he sustained in the match against the Oxfordshire Nomads. There is good material among the Freshmen, and the forwards are strong and heavy: the least satisfactory part of the team at present is the three-quarter line.

The season has started very fairly well, and there is much promising material. It is true we have not won the 'Cupper,' as Hertford used to do in olden times, but it is comforting to think that, by our victory in the first round, we have at least improved on the last two years. I. P. F. Campbell, from Repton, is a great acquisition.

ATHLETIC SPORTS.

The College Athletic Sports were held on the Iffley Road track on Friday, November 18th. It was gratifying to see that, in spite of the inclementness of the weather, considerably more interest was taken in the meeting than last year—possibly because the rival attraction of a Cup Tie on the adjoining field was not provided. Although the number of competitors who started was larger than usual (except in the Quarter-Mile), the College results were only moderate, though possibly not more so than elsewhere. The standard of College Sports at Oxford is rarely high: it would surely promote more interest in athletics, and produce better results, if the example recently set at Cambridge were followed at Oxford, and two or more colleges at a time combined to hold athletic meetings of a more ambitious type.

Both the heats and the final of the Strangers' Race, which last year fell through for lack of competitors, were well worth seeing, and produced good entries and fine times.

C. N. Jackson, Esq., acted as Referee; W. B. Eddle, Esq., and the Rev. W. J. Cavey as judges; R. L. Hardy was Secretary, and the Committee consisted of J. W. Round, G. T. Gravell, R. Bevir, C. H. Fayton, H. C. Joyce, and R. D. Clarke.

ATHLETIC SPORTS.

The College Athletic Sports were held on the Iffley Road track on Friday, November 18th. It was gratifying to see that, in spite of the inclemency of the weather, considerably more interest was taken in the meeting than last year—possibly because the rival attraction of a Cup Tie on the adjoining field was not provided. Although the number of competitors who started was larger than usual (except in the Quarter-Mile), the College results were only moderate, though possibly not more is rarely high; it would surely promote more interest in athletics, and produce better results, if the example recently set at Cambridge were followed at Oxford, and two or more colleges at a time combined to hold athletic meetings of a more ambitious type.

Both the heats and the final of the Straunger's Race, which last year fell through for lack of competitors, were well worth seeing, and produced good entries and fine times.

C. V. Salusbury, Esq., acted as Referee; W. B. Riddell, Esq., and the Rev. W. J. Carew as Judges; R. L. Hardy was Secretary, and the Committee consisted of J. W. Rowlands, G. T. Cowell, R. Bevir, C. H. Payton, H. C. Joyce, and R. D. Clarke. Results:—

Putt—Weight—1. R. M. Bryans; 2. E. W. Carroll. Distance, 20 ft. 11 in.

Hurdle Race—1, R. D. Clarke; 2, G. R. Owen. Height, 4 ft. 11 in.

Thompson's Race (100 Yards Hurdling)—1, G. H. G. Smith (2nd, 5 hod); 2, R. S. Langley (6th, 4th); 3, A. Chard (3rd, 24th). Time, 15.25 sec.

Burnham Course—1, E. W. Carroll, 2, R. D. Clarke. Distance, 16 ft. 7 in.

250 YARDS OBSTACLE SWANS' RACE—1, Mims; 2, Groves.

50 YARDS BOXING: Men's Hurdler—1, R. C. H. Kingston (30 yd.; 2, E. S. Wood (30 yd.).
One Mile Hurdler—1, G. K. Owen (30 yd.); 2, C. V. Salusbury (30 yd.). Time, 4 mins. 38 sec.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of the HERTFORD COLLEGE MAGAZINE.

DEAR SIR,—I was glad to see that in your last issue you uttered a protest against the moribund condition of the Fox Debating Society, but am sorry to notice that your remarks have not as yet had effect. As far as I can remember, the Society has not met for at least two years. It is true that other colleges are also allowing their debating societies to lapse, and this seems a pity; but certainly a college which is so lacking in common institutions as Hertford cannot afford to dispense with the one Society which is open to the whole College. Our forefathers tell us that, in its palmy days, the Fox met regularly, and was well attended by the College in general: that it was never too serious in private nor too frivolous in public business: that a number of men who would otherwise never have dared to make their first speech at the Union, found their voices at the Fox; and that once a year there was a visitors’ debate, at which the Hertford Champions were pitted against the orators of other colleges. It is no argument to say that the College as a whole is not clamouring for a debate—the Fox has always depended for the success of its meetings on individual enterprise—but that fact did not make the meetings any the less enthusiastic. I feel no doubt that if the officers would only secure a good subject, four speakers, and a suitable night, the College would do the rest. If there are no officers, could not the Head of the College call a meeting to elect them?

Yours, &c.,

DEMOSTHENES.

To the Editor of the HERTFORD COLLEGE MAGAZINE.

When you’re fought, Dear Sir, a struggle in a perfect sea of mud,
Scrambling, heeling, tackling, marking out of touch,
When your eyes are bulging queerly and your nose is mostly blood,
And you hope to hobble home without a crutch;
O, ’tis comforting to think of a floor that’s like a sink,
Three baths for thirty* suffocating men,
And you picture lucky Morton as you tarry with your dirt on,
Where the baths (so rumour hath it) number ten.

And when at last you’re cleaner and you climb the dizzy stair,
And find your friends a-waiting for their host,
As the pangs of hunger gnaw you and you find no muffins there,
And apologise for lack of buns and toast;—
O, ’tis comforting to know that it’s not the fault of Joe,
Who is doing all he can, and rather more,
But you picture Buildings New with more baths and tea room too—
Tut! Tut! We’ll all be buried long before.

Yours, &c.
