All best wishes,

I hope that my not-so-subtle references in this update to what just a tiny fraction of Hertford alums are doing is a reminder why all this matters. We want them to feel that Hertford is a positive part of the idea of where your career might take you. [link to video on our Bridge Blog). Do join us at an HOC event. Please get in touch with the Office if you have any further thoughts or suggestions, or if you'd like to come and stay. And look out for invitations for further events.

Finally, I wanted to mention our new college/student charter. We are making commitments that we hope will enhance and protect the student experience, ensuring that our students have a voice through their representatives; that the University is a safe and inclusive place; and that our students have the support they need to achieve well. The charter is here. I enjoyed my time as Vice Chancellor, and Irene Tracy taking over. Louise has been a great supporter of our new ‘Head, Hand and Hertford’ course. We are making commitments that we hope will enhance and protect the student experience, ensuring that our students have a voice through their representatives; that the University is a safe and inclusive place; and that our students have the support they need to achieve well. The charter is here. I enjoyed my time as Vice Chancellor, and Irene Tracy taking over. Louise has been a great supporter of our new ‘Head, Hand and Hertford’ course.

This is a period of transition for the University, with Louise Richardson completing her time as Provost and the College's next leader, yet to be announced. University-wide events are still under way. But it is a good way to become a little better informed about how the University operates.